As a 30+ year-old:

Indicate any past or current social or emotional problems: ,

Indicate any past or current behavioral problems:

Aidan never "behaved" badly, he hid from the turmoil and craziness of his father and (as I have been finding out in the last 4 years)his step mom, avoidance was his self defense.

There was an incident while he was still with my son. We were at his grandmother's memorial at a retirement community. Aidan and his brother were running around jumping, banging the ceiling, being disrespectful, acting wild , not caring that there were elderly people who they might knock over (which we were telling them)and would not stop. On the way home we pulled over on the side of the road and he was yelling and being defiant egging us on by doing pushups in the road etc. I saw it as a regression triggered by being around his grandmother's family and also because his dad was getting out soon and had been calling him and Aaron using an illegal cell phone so it could be long unrecorded conversations. Lots of manipulating and both of them were starting to show hostility and anger towards us.. huge change. BUT the behavior , the running sound and the exaggerated rambunctiousness the physical chaos was what was encouraged and always happening when they were growing up encouraged by the father

Describe this adult child's socialization history (many or few friends, duration of friendships, frequency of arguments or fights). How has this changed over time?

I know him through family context so to me and my kids he was always sweet and loving, but in the context of a very physical family yelling, screaming abusive he tended to hide out. He was picked on quite a bit and his brothers were encouraged to bully him which they really did not like to do. He loved my son and had the wherewithal to ask to come stay with us from time to time .

Describe this adult child's interpersonal skills as a young child, adolescent, and adult. How does this adult child relate to younger people? Older people? How have these changed over time? In the family context he was always sweet and good with the elderly, never saw him with other children or adults.

Would you describe this adult child as anxious? Fearless? Independent? not fearless, maybe anxious. and not independent

Describe this adult child's ability to express feelings:

Aidan expresses kindness and love pretty well his deep feelings , trauma usually takes some thing to initiate those conversations,

Describe any fears or phobias: fear of Spiders

Where does this adult child now live? Who does he/she live with?

Aidan lives with me, his non-biological aunt.

Aidan moved to Bend Oregon with his step mother and two brothers in 2020., post death of brother. In 2021 his father brought him back to Santa Rosa to stall off prison until Aidan was 18. He had Aidan live in a trailer with no water or electricity for 8? months. His step mother was divorcing his father and getting rid of Aaron and Aidan. When Demien, his father, went to prison, Aidan moved in with my son , and I took his younger brother. Aidan made so much progress then but towards the end of the prison sentence there was a lot of manipulation of both Boys and they were convinced to move with Demein when he got out in Jan 2023. Basically being used for SNAP benefits etc and supposedly needing each other. His father continued the abuse and in July of 2024 Aidan called me and asked if he could live with me, he wanted to get a diploma, and could no longer live with his father, finally as a young man understood that his father was “ a racist and misogynistic” . and that he was finally able to say his dad was just a horrible person.

Please describe this adult child's work history: types of jobs held, ability to hold a job, work problems and successes, interpersonal problems at work, or any other issues.

He had a part time job at a burger joint while he lived with my son, it lasted a few months, but I think it had to do with the owner not Aidan. He then was given a job at the Success center at the welcome desk as he was going there to work on his diploma and gain life skills. They all loved him there.

Has this adult child ever been in trouble with the law? Please describe:

no

Are there any known experiences of abuse, sexual abuse, neglect, or abandonment? If so, describe:

I observed the yelling, verbal abuse, name calling and general horrible parenting (I can tell you about this(while he was growing up. When Aidan lived with Harlan he began to open up and describe what it was like at home more than what we always saw as chaos. Recently as he is feeling loved and confident he has been telling me about things his father did such as trying to drown him and his brother twice, holding him by the neck up to the mirror telling Aidan to say out loud that he is stupid, ugly, worthless, retarded, and autistic etc. He told me that while Demeien was in prison and talking to him on the phone he was telling Aidan to Punch Harlan etc.

I have been finding out more and more in the past 4 years.

I have also learned about how the step mom treated him.

Neglect in that there was no parenting going on, no help with homework ever, Complete emotional neglect. The step mom only fed him and Aaron junk food, I learned that she kept separate good food for her kids. She poisoned their grandfather's idea of who these boys were and that led to a difficult relationship with him. They were the bad stupid ones and Cameron, her biological son, was the sweet charming one.. I can explain more about that if necessary... EDtc etc
